

Dr Debra Bourne MA VetMB PhD MRCVS

Dr Debra Bourne graduated as a veterinarian from Cambridge in 1992 and completed her PhD in 1997. Since then she has worked for Wildlife Information Network (WIN) as a Veterinary Editor, developing Wildpro electronic encyclopedia volumes on wild animal health and management, and emerging infectious diseases such as West Nile Virus and Chronic Wasting Disease. She is interested in diverse species such as penguins, marsupials, cranes, lemurs and waterfowl, and has a particular interest in the relationships between natural history and behaviour, captive management, diseases and disease management.