

Jane Wood RVN MBVNA

Jane began her career as a student veterinary nurse in a mixed practice in 1990 at 16 years old. She qualified as a Veterinary Nurse in 1994 and spent the next 8 years working in both private and corporate practices, as both a head nurse and assessor.

In 2002 she made the decision to move into a sales role, and spent the next 5 years working as a sales representative for Animalcare. In her role, she was able to continue her passion for veterinary nursing and training, and regularly ran practice staff training sessions on fluid therapy and microchipping.

In 2007 Jane moved from Animalcare to Merial animal health, where she completed her AMTRA manufacturer's qualification and became a territory manager. Within Merial, she still continues to fulfil her passion for training, and spends a great deal of her time teaching practice staff about infectious disease, ectoparasites, arthritis and customer care.

During her time spent in a sales role, Jane has always maintained her passion for veterinary nursing, and spends at least one weekend of every month working as a veterinary nurse in practice, running effective nurse clinics. She also gives up a week of her holiday per year, and works as a locum nurse.

Jane has also spent 2 years as a BVNA council member and 18 months as the BVNA treasurer. She continues to support the BVNA as a member and volunteer for Veterinary Nursing week.

She remains as a listed and registered Veterinary Nurse and is currently studying for an NVQ in Sales Level 2.
